NO AID FOR DICTATORS

It is ironical that while President Eisenhower predicts revolt behind the iron curtain, riots and demonstrations are convulsing another of the democracies. They have occurred with monotonous regularity in recent months all over the free world. It is foolish to say that these countries extend to their citizens the liberty to say and do what they like. They do not. The horrible truth is that in too many of these countries, so-called democratic regimes known for the sanctimonious lip-service they pay to the ideals of liberty and freedom, are governed by budding Hitlers. These are the regimes, moreover, which in many cases are being supported by American aid. Each time they come crashing down after popular riots in Moscow and Peking Radio are able to crow: "Another defeat for the imperialists." How much longer is this foolishness to continue? Two dictators have been thrown out in recent months—President Rhee and Adnan Menderes. In Taipei, there is another whom America supports and who may be one day overthrown and exiled.

AMERICA'S support of Chiang Kai-shek, moreover, is causing incalculable harm to the Western position in Asia. He is widely identified with all those interests in China which suffocated good government and made a mockery of it. He is identified with the selfish, the corrupt, the predatory, the warlords and those who opposed genuine reform. This is why the Communists hate the Americans, because they continue to support the man who allowed these people to flourish while China went down the drain. And while Washington may care not a jot what Peking thinks, it would help the West to cultivate only those who subscribe genuinely to the principles of democracy and freedom. The State Department will possibly defend its policy by pointing out that irrespective of the qualities, policies or politics of the ruler or government, economic aid is given for the general welfare of the people, while military aid is supplied to stave off Communist aggression.

NATIONS receiving aid can and often do employ blackmail by pointing out that suspension would cause general suffering and expose the country to subversion. Another device they employ is to tell the Americans that if they do not give aid, the Russians will. At this point, resistance generally crumbles and the money is given regardless of the calibre of government or quality of ruler. It must be stopped. Western aid must be given to under-developed countries. But only to those nations which conform to the club rules of democracy, or in the case of newly independent countries which promise conformity in a fixed time limit. The West cannot afford to be identified with tyrants, dictators, thugs and political go-getters. This invites the risk of being accused of meddling in other people's affairs, but even that is preferable to shoring up a rotten, corrupt or autocratic regime.

Attacked by Indonesian rebel aircraft

A British tanker which received a direct hit in a bombing attack off Borneo two years ago was towed into Hongkong harbour last night after a 42-day tow.

The tanker was the San Flaviano and it was bombed by aircraft operated by the Indonesian rebels off Balikpapan.

The tug Kowloon Docks brought the bomb-scarred and battered tanker into harbour last night under the command of Capt. R. D. Jones.

Only the forward part of the tanker remained, and it is understood this will be scrapped.

The San Flaviano was owned by the Eagle Tanker Co Ltd of London. It was 12,258 tons.

The San Flaviano was bombed and set on fire on April 28 in Balikpapan harbour where she was discharging oil from the Persian Gulf at the Shell refinery there.

The ship's crew of 50 were all saved and there were no casualties. She carried an all British crew.

At the same time, a Shell tanker, the Daronta, had a near miss when a bomb from the same aircraft shot up a fountain of water nearby.

Carrier
here for scrapping

The U.S. escort aircraft carrier Savo Island, of 10,400 tons, arrived here early this afternoon from Boston to be scrapped in Gin Drinker's Bay.

The carrier was towed in by a Dutch tug, Thames. The Savo Island is the second of five carriers purchased by a local firm, the Tai Cheung Transportation Co. for dismantling in Hongkong.

The first carrier, the Nehanta Bay of the same tonnage arrived earlier this month.

One other will come from Boston within a month.

STOP PRESS

Ike was badly shaken

By RENE McCOLL

Manila, June 16. News of Premier Kishi's decision to postpone President Eisenhower's Japanese visit came as a sickening blow to the President as he concluded his triumphal visit to the Philippines today.

Coming on top of the wrecked Summit Conference in Paris and the miserably embarrassing U-2 affair, plus the relentless personal attacks to which Eisenhower has been subjected by Khrushchev, this latest blow is bitter personal humiliation and gives the United States yet another enormous diplomatic black-eye.

The unwelcome news came ironically while Mr Eisenhower was participating in the climatic engagement of his Philippines visit.

NEWS REPORT

After receiving the highest Philippine Order, Mr Eisenhower was inspecting the troop parade. Suddenly the news report was rushed out to Mr Hagerty, the Press Secretary.

Mr Hagerty immediately ordered a special telephone circuit to be installed between the United States Embassy in Tokyo and the back of the bellowed stand. Quickly contact was established with Douglas MacArthur II, the U.S. Ambassador to Japan and the news was confirmed. A smiling Eisenhower was then about two-thirds the way through his inspection.

Mr Eisenhower was still smiling when he returned to his seat and was then told. His reaction was the use of a typical army expulsive. Any lip readers among the onlookers must have received a slight shock. His smile vanished and was replaced by a beaming smile but the President recovered his composure although the effort must have been great.

Students plan
demonstration against Kishi

Tokyo, June 17.

Japan's Communist-led leftwing, unsatisfied with their victory in forcing postponement of President Eisenhower's visit, today planned fresh demonstrations and strikes against Premier Nobusuke Kishi's government.

The 3,500,000-member Labour Federation, Sohyo, announced it would muster up to 300,000 demonstrators at the Diet tomorrow to step up the pressure for Kishi's resignation. Diet dissolution, and crushing of the new U.S.-Japan security treaty.

Sohyo, whose membership includes 70 per cent of the country's government workers, also announced more strikes and work stoppages will take place on June 22.

The opposition socialists issued a statement declaring cancellation of the Eisenhower visit is "the will of the people" and "an expression of opposition to Kishi that makes his resignation the only course left to him."

BRITISH WOMAN KILLED

Vienna, June 16.

A woman identified by Austrian police as Miriam Gilbert 37, of London, died when a glider she was piloting collided with another glider over the Aigen airfield in the Enns Valley today.

Both planes crashed onto the ground 240 feet below. Mrs Gilbert was killed instantly while two Austrians who had been flying in the other glider died later in hospital.

It was the second accident of this kind to occur over the Aigen airfield in less than a month.

Since May 21, eight people have been killed and two others seriously injured in glider collisions and tourist planes crashes in Austria.—AP.

Fidel Castro gets arms shipment

Havana, June 16.

A European diplomat reported today that a West German ship, the Marie Neuvel unloaded 60 tons of arms and ammunition here yesterday.

The diplomat said Prime Minister Fidel Castro and his brother, Raúl, Armed Forces Minister, personally supervised the unloading. The arms are believed to be of Belgian origin, the diplomat said, adding that another 400 tons of arms are expected soon.

The vessel then went to Miami and left a similar shipment of arms there, the diplomat said.—AP.

Big Kremlin victory for Mr Khrushchev

London, June 16.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has served notice on the Communist camp that his policy of peaceful co-existence has won out in the Kremlin.

Soviet affairs experts said today this was the essence of two consecutive major policy pronouncements in official Moscow publications within the last 72 hours.

Mr Khrushchev believed to have been caught between two conflicting policy groups in the Kremlin — has won the day again, these sources said.

Peaceful co-existence through negotiations with the capitalist nations, has been confirmed as the favoured policy of the Kremlin in an argument between extremists and middle-of-the-road Communists.

Pravda, organ of the Communist Party, on Sunday strongly attacked the left-wing "tough line" advocates,

A similar attack on extremists was made by Sovetskaya Rossiya, the organ of the Government and Party of the Russian Republic.

This is understood to be the outcome of considerable behind-the-scenes discussions since the collapse of summit in Paris last month.

Informed sources said discussions were believed to be still in progress among the top leaders of the Soviet hierarchy, in preparation for the important central committee meeting of the Communist Party in Moscow on July 14.

The existence of differences in the highest councils of Soviet hierarchy has been and continues to be denied by the Communists.

Mr Khrushchev himself went out of his way in his recent Moscow press conference to dismiss suggestions of divergences within the Presidium of the Soviet Union.

Advice reaching the West, however, has suggested that the Kremlin has been groping for a policy immediately before and since the collapse of the summit, though Mr Khrushchev's personal leadership was never seriously at stake.

Mr Khrushchev appears now to have won over critics of his co-existence policy, though they may not agree with his strategy and tactics in carrying it out.—UPI.

DOLLAR INSULT

Washington, June 16. The Senate added $1,779,000 to the defence budget tonight after being told Mr Nikita S. Khrushchev would not have dared insult President Eisenhower if he had more respect for U.S. military power.—UPI.

U.S. tender bringing clothes here

San Diego, June 16.

The U.S. seaplane tender Pine Island, carrying 5,000 pounds of clothing for handicapped persons at Hongkong and in Japan, will leave San Diego today for eight months duty in the Far East.

The tender will be based at Buckner Bay, Okinawa, as the flagship of Rear Adm. John W. Gannon, Commander of the Taiwan Patrol Force.—AP.

British soldiers who wandered across border

Return with souvenir

Three men of the Warwickshire Regiment who wandered across the border "out of curiosity" on Sunday night were returned by the Communist Chinese on Wednesday.

Each of them was richer by one ivory cigarette holder as a gift from the Chinese in commemoration of their unexpected courtesy call on China.

All teenagers between 18 and 19, the three soldiers tumbled their way from their barracks in Fanling to Ta Ku Ling on the border.

Then they crossed the border and continued on until they reached a building, a Communist party office, where they were immediately detained.

TREATED AS VIPS
After thorough interrogation, they were treated as VIPS and given coffee, sweets and cigarettes.

At 4 p.m. on Wednesday, a uniformed Communist official crossed over to inform the Hongkong police at Ta Ku Ling that the Chinese were ready to release three British soldiers.

Superintendent D. E. W. O'Brien of the Police Frontier Division and several senior police officers immediately went to Ta Ku Ling.

The police and army officers waited at the border until 5.45 p.m. when the three missing soldiers returned from China through a gate in the barbed wire fence.

They were interrogated at the Ta Ku Ling police station. The three who have been in Hongkong for only two to three months were said to have admitted that they crossed over "just out of curiosity."

The Communists presented them each with an ivory cigarette holder on their departure.

The Army this morning refused to release the names of the three men.

Hearing of Jasper case commences

London, June 16.

The trial began here yesterday of three prominent London financiers involved in big property deals which last year made headlines in British newspapers.

In the dock at the Old Bailey were Friedrich Grunwald, 34, Herbert Murray, 64, secretary and manager of the State Building Society, and Harry Jasper, 54, head of a big group of investment and property companies.

Grunwald faced fraud charges involving more than £3,500,000. Murray was charged with aiding and abetting him in fraudulent conversion; and Jasper was accused of making reckless statements which were misleading or deceptive in connection with the disposal of shares.

The judge, Sir Gilbert Paull, warned the jury that the trial would be long rather like "a monster jigsaw puzzle." After a few days or a week they might feel hopelessly confused. But before the end probably a quite distinct picture would emerge.

All three accused pleaded not guilty, the case was continuing. —Reuter.

WEEKLY REPORT ON THE HONGKONG STOCK EXCHANGE

MARKET'S RECOVERY BID

Prices improve as buyers appear again

The recent weather and the current political unrest in Japan are the main factors behind the declines in the local stock market during the past fortnight.

But at the close yesterday there appeared to be signs of the market returning to normal with prices steadying.

Over the period under review prices fell a little over five per cent. Trading during the last two days however have shown a fair recovery of these losses and the trend appears to be steady but uncertain.

At the close yesterday most sections remained steady with others showing some gains particularly Kowloon Wharves which were up $18 from the previous week.

Banks appeared to be still weak and declined a further $10 closing at $1,200. Unions remained fairly steady with the addition of a dollar bringing the closing price to $93.

Both the ferry companies showed little movement with Star Ferry the weaker of the two.

Hotels, Lands and Realities remained steady with the first named showing a slight gain.

In other utility stocks China Lights showed a slight gain while Electricities eased off a fraction. Trams remained steady at $31½.

Telephones which have been declining gradually dropped another 25 cents over the week closing at $37½.

In stores both Watsons and Dairies appeared to be weaker while Lane, Crawford's slipped fractionally.

Textiles and Nanyangs remained fairly steady.

Interest has been lacking in the rubber section with the exception of Rubber Trust and Amalgamated both of which have been fairly active with buyers coming in at lower levels.

Market diary

Friday: The market continued weak with little interest displayed on the board. Turnover was approximately $1,935,000.

Monday: Bears were extremely busy in a depressed market and prices closed at the day's low. Volume of business was approximately $3,738,000.

Tuesday: Unsettled conditions persisted at the opening but the appearance of subsequent buyers resulted in a strong recovery. The turnover was approximately $3,738,000.

Wednesday: The market continued to improve with fractional gains during the half day session. Turnover amounted to about $2,112,000.

Thursday: There was marked improvement in today's prices with all round enquiries. Volume of business transacted was approximately $3,531,000.

OVERSEAS COMPANY REPORTS

Ottawa, June 16. The president of the Government-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Co. said in the annual report issued today that 1960 would be a difficult time for all uranium producers.

But with a doubling of world power needs every 10 to 12 years, the long-term future of the industry was bright if too great a disruption could be avoided in the years ahead, according to the president, Mr. W. M. Gilchrist.

The company, which is the sole marketing agency for all uranium output in Canada, reported purchases and resales from other producers last year rose to $295,300,000 from $246,900,000 the year before. Gross from the company's own mining operation was $38.4 million against $39.8 million previously.

WALL STREET CLOSES ON A MIXED NOTE

Specialties such as boating, electronics and vending issues starred in the stock market today but for most of the others the trend was downward.

For the favoured ones, the gains ranged from two to five dollars a share. Elsewhere, gains and losses were mostly fractions to a dollar a share.

Aircrafts, rubbers and tobacco were firm while motors, airlines and drugs declined. The pattern was mixed for steels, metals, utilities and oils.

Brokers called it further consolidation of the market's big rise of last week.

Reaction

Volume was 3,540,000 shares compared with 3,630,000 yesterday.

Brokers complained over what they called the weak leadership of the market during the consolidation period. Others felt the current sideways movement was a natural correction to last week's abnormally fast advance.

In the absence of any solid business news, and with the weekend coming on they looked for more of the same. Postponement of President Eisenhower's Japanese trip had little effect on the market, observers said.

Standard Oil products headed the most active list for the third straight day, rising 2½¢ at 24½¢ on volume of 149,300 shares. Universal Match benefited from glowing reports on its latest vending machine and spurted another 5½¢ to 78¢.

A pleasure boat manufacturer, NAFI was third most active with a leap of 5½¢ to 62½¢.

Other active gainers included Collins Radio 2½¢, Minnesota

Ex-diplomat said lived in near poverty

Washington, June 16.
A former Swedish diplomat accused of stealing $12,000 in embassy funds had to sell his farm to pay debts, a jury was told today.

The testimony came as the defence began its efforts to show that 59-year-old Perse Skantzé is an innocent clerk who was blamed because Embassy records had not been kept properly.

The defence has pictured Skantzé, former chancellor of the Embassy here, as living in near-poverty with his two children in nearby Maryland.
Defence witnesses today included a woman who runs a grocery store in the vicinity and her school teacher daughter.

SOLD FARM

Testimony was that Skantzé had a good reputation and was obliged to sell his chicken farm together with another piece of property, last year.

Previous testimony quoted a tax return by Skantzé as saying the chicken farm lost more than $19,000 during one year's operation.

The defence read a brief
letter from Mr Erik Boheman, former Swedish Ambassador to the United States, dated April 10, 1957, telling his Foreign Office that the first-quarter financial accounts of the Embassy were in "perfect order."

That was part of the time during which Skantzé is charged with embezzling the funds and falsifying the records.

The defence lawyer also read at length the regulations governing the preparation of Swedish Embassy financial records.

These regulations noted at one point "the administration of the funds of the mission is the responsibility of the head of the mission."

During Skantzé's term here Boheman, as ambassador, was head of Sweden's diplomatic mission to the United States.—AP.

U.S. population

Washington, June 16.
The Census Bureau reported today that the 1960 population of the United States is approximately 179,500,000.

The total was based on a quick tabulation of the result of this year's census. A detailed tally will be announced later this year.—Reuter.

Hat fashions for Ascot

These three original millinery styles cheered Waterloo Station, London, on June 14, as racegoers left for Ascot to attend the first day of the Royal Ascot race meeting. Mrs Michael Dormer (left) wore a wide veil scattered with a shower of rose petals; while 18-year-old Louise Patterson from Victoria, Australia (centre), chose a large, fluffy tulle pom-pom. The picture at right shows Mrs Anthony Kinsman who sported her own do-it-yourself picture hat. It is made of thousands of white flowers in layers inside a wide silk brim.—AP Photo.

'DEAD END' NEAR IN ARMS TALKS

Geneva, June 16.

The Western Powers told the Soviet delegation today unless it obtained new instructions from Moscow, the disarmament conference was approaching a dead end.

The ten-nation talks reached the crossroads after the West had told Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Mr Valerian Zorin that the basic provisions of the Soviet disarmament plan were totally unacceptable and could not be taken seriously.

BANK GUARD SURRENDERS WITH LOOT

Boston, June 16.

Eugene J. Hicks, wanted for questioning in connection with the theft of $103,000 from a bank where he was employed as a part-time guard, surrendered to police last night.

Police said he told authorities he buried the money.—AP.

Israeli patrol killing

Tel Aviv, June 16.

An Israeli border patrol killed a young Israeli Arab and wounded two others last night when the three youths tried to escape from Israel into the Gaza Strip, it was learned today.

According to reports, the youngsters refused to obey an order to halt.—AFP.

PROBLEMS

"We cannot solve such important and complex problems as the total liquidation of this or that category of arms by waving a magic wand. No serious person would take this seriously."

The conference was thus up against almost the same blank wall as when it adjourned on April 29 for the abortive summit meeting.

Western delegates said, however, that they had no plans for adjournment now.

They said they were prepared to go on talking with the Soviet bloc right through the summer, even if the prospects of success were virtually non-existent.

The British Minister of State
Mr David Ormsby-Gore rejected the Soviet disarmament plan in equally firm words.
"It is precisely calculated to give the Soviet Union a large strategic and military advantage over the countries of the Nato alliance," he said.

"Anyone can see the obvious military advantages of the proposal from the point of view of the Soviet Union."

"The banning of bases in foreign countries would not harm the Soviet Union at all but would gravely impair the collective security of the free world."—AP.

Trinidad to get new constitution

Port Of Spain, June 17.

Mr Iain Macleod, Britain's Colonial Secretary, has proposed a new constitution for Trinidad and Tobago granting full internal self-government, it was officially announced
today.

Under the constitution there would be a two chamber legislature consisting of a Senate and a House of Representatives in place of the present Legislative Council.

Agreement on its form was reached during the visit to Trinidad of Mr Macleod who had constitutional talks with a government delegation led by Dr Patrick Solomon, Minister of Home Affairs, and with opposition leaders.

The new constitution will bring Trinidad and the small adjoining island of Tobago into line with the internally self-governing islands of Jamaica and Barbados which are also part of the West Indies Federation.—Reuter.

Quads born in Cairo

Cairo, June 17.

A 26-year-old woman gave birth to quadruplets in Alexandria Hospital today, according to the Middle East
news agency.

The quads, all boys, were called Gamal, Tito, Nehru and Nasser, the agency said.

The mother, Atiad Mohammed Abdel Rahman, is married to a 64-year-old Alexandria Labourer.

The mother and quads, according to the agency, are all in good health.—AP.

MAC DEFENDS U.S. CALL FOR MILITARY ALERTS

London, June 16.

Mr Harold Macmillan, the Prime Minister, defends
American policy in calling two alerts for U.S.
military forces throughout the world on May 15 and June 1 in a letter to a Labour Member of Parliament released here tonight.

Replying to a letter of protest about the alert which was sent to him by the MP, Mr William Warby, Mr Macmillan said: "I think you are under a misapprehension about these exercises. The alerts were routine checks involving no increase in U.S. air force activities.
"They were called to test communications and the readiness of the units involved, and they had no other object."

DETERRENT

"There was, therefore, no question of an error of judgment which could plunge the world into nuclear war."

"If the western deterrent forces are to be effective in their task of preserving the peace of the world, they must clearly maintain a high standard of efficiency and exercise their communications procedures at frequent intervals.

"So far as actual operations are concerned, as opposed to practice exercises, it has on many occasions been made clear that the use in emergency of United States bases in this country is subject to joint decision by the United Kingdom and the United States governments. This remains the position."

"Finally, I cannot accept the implication in your letter that these alerts were ordered with the deliberate aim of increasing tension and wrecking the summit conference."—Reuter.

WAY

by Beachcomber

IT is well known that one of the revolutionary ideas I introduced when I was editing the old Rochdale Observer was the headline which has nothing whatever to do with the item of news that follows it.

It was therefore with a joy bordering on delirium that I read the following in a London evening paper:

The third gazelle.

Telephones are disappearing from public kiosks in the Walthamstow and Chingford district.

Clos de Giggleswick

MANY a true word is spoken in jest, as a very junior attaché at one of our Embassies said, when he told a Minister jocularly that he had a face like the back of a dilapidated piston. A good-natured warning to French wine-importers that they may one day have to face competition from British wines encourages dreams of British sparkling claret from the Dorking vineyards at Fougere's, and Chateau Basingstoke taking pride of place on the wine list at the Regency.

Autobiographical note

AN angler has admitted that he has been fishing for 30 years, and has never caught a fish. He, above all other anglers, is entitled to say, "You should have seen the ones that got away." I myself have only fished for about five minutes.

From a rowing boat off the Cornish coast, I hardly had I started when a fish bit. I hauled it in, and it came clapping at me in what seemed to be a menacing manner. Half in fear and half in compassion, I threw it back into its native element, and I have never fished since.

Nothing to do with me

IT is not every day that three I thrushes lay 14 eggs in the waistcoat pocket of a tram-driver. Are we in for an epidemic of waistcoat-raiding by boys who go birdnesting? If I were a tram-driver I would hire a bird-scarer with a rattle.

Commonwealth
press rateLondon, June 16.
Mr Gavin Astor, Chairman of the Council of the Commonwealth Press Union, said today the expense of subsidising the Commonwealth "penny rate" for press telegrams was more than worthwhile in the interests of Commonwealth information and unity.

In an article published today in the World's Press News, trade journal of British journalism and advertising, Mr Astor, Chairman of The Times said it was difficult to over-estimate the importance to the information service of the Commonwealth of the penny rate which the Commonwealth Press Union had contributed powerfully to establishing and was fighting to defend.

"In the narrow sense it is plainly uneconomic: press communications at a penny a word have to be subsidised," he said. "The union, however, is convinced that the expense is more than worthwhile. Without the penny rate, readers in the Commonwealth would receive immeasurably less information about one another's countries and the unity of the whole would be grievously wounded. "Nevertheless the penny rate is constantly under international attack, by outside interests openly or covertly unfriendly to the Commonwealth and, as the Telecommunications Committee (of the union) cannot help suspecting, would be given only perfunctory support by British official spokesmen if they were not under equally constant exhortation on the union's behalf," he said.—Reuters.

OF TOWER

Field Marshal Alexander

London, June 16.
The Queen today approved the appointment of Field Marshal Earl Alexander of Tunis to the historic post of Constable of the Tower of London.Lord Alexander was Supreme Allied Commander in the Mediterranean theatre during the closing stages of World War II and Governor-General of Canada from 1946 to 1952.
He will succeed Field Marshal Lord Wilson, who retires on July 31, in a post founded by William the Conqueror in 1078.
The constable's chief duty is to administer the centuries-old Tower of London "as a fortress," and on occasions as a prison for traitors and other offenders against the State.
The last important prisoner was Rudolf Hess, deputy to Adolf Hitler, who flew to Britain during World War II on a "peace mission."
The post carries a nominal remuneration of £200 a year.—China Mail Special.

Mr Laurence Kirwan, director of the Royal Geographical Society, said today he would be "very surprised" if there was evidence to support a Russian claim to have been the first to discover the Antarctic mainland.He was commenting on a report yesterday by Tass. It quoted Mr Vladimir Lebedev, the Secretary of the Soviet Antarctic Committee, as saying there were documents in the State Naval Archives in Leningrad to prove that a Russian expedition led by Capt Fabian von Bellingshausen had discovered the mainland on January 28, 1820.
Mr Lebedev said most foreign authors incorrectly ascribed the achievement to Lieut Edward Bransfield, of Britain, who was said to have approached the northwestern tip of Graham Land in his sealer, the Williams, onJanuary 30, 1820, Tass reported.
Mr Kirwan said today: "I published a recent book, the 'White Road,' with full evidence of the British, American and Russian claims. "If there is new evidence, that would shed a new light on the situation. But I would be very surprised as I studied Bellingshausen's diaries," and Bellingshausen had made no claim to have discovered Antarctica.—China Mail Special.Main causes

Alcohol and bad weather were the two main causes of Britain's 161 road deaths last Christmas.

A special inquiry set up by the Transport Minister, Mr Ernest Marples, reported that in at least 50 per cent of the 150 fatal accidents over a given period people involved had all taken alcohol shortly before.

The second main killer was the weather. Roads were dry in only 10 per cent of the fatal accidents. In the rest they were either dark, wet or icy.

The report was published by the Road Research Laboratory, whose officers gathered information from most of the police forces which dealt with fatal accidents over the four-day Christmas holiday.—China Mail Special.

WOMAN SENSE

IT NEVER looked right for town. For office wear, it was a wash-out from the start. And no man wants to be seen dead with it at a cocktail party. But sneaking back on to the fashion scene all the same, undaunted, comes the SACK. And this time it is back where it started—and where it still looks best of all: on the beach. Cool and unrestricting, comfortable as a brunch-coat and shades more elegant, it still wins on points as easy, idle hot-weather wear. Which is why it is turning up again this year on the French beaches and the Italian lazy-bones resorts like Copri, where it began its career. And this week it came back in London. The one in the picture is French-made in terval, a washable synthetic that looks and handles like silk. One of several styles on sale at Galeries Lafayette.

The customer MUST be right

THE fussiest, most difficult person in the world to sell anything to—that's how they describe that golden girl, the teenage customer, in American stores.

The whims of this particular customer are a matter of increasing concern to shop and store high-ups—and for one simple, obvious reason.

Today's fussy, unsatisfied teenager is tomorrow's faithful customer of the rival store. Throw away the goodwill of even one teenager and you throw away the potential customer of the next fifty years.

Catch 'em young — and with any luck they'll still be tottering in fifty years from now, swearing you're the only place in town where they ever find anything that really suits them.

This accounts for the sudden rash of enthusiastically-run anxious-to-please teenage departments which have been opening up, one after the other, in even the most dignified of the London stores.

Mother is so far behind

THERE are 700,000 potential teenage girl customers in Chicago. It is, furthermore, a matter of proven statistics that, in America, the average teenager buys 11.88 pairs of shoes a year while her mother is perfectly satisfied with three pairs.

The shoe department was accordingly a logical place to launch the attack: and six months ago they did just that.

Vanished now from their teenage department are the crusty, middle-aged assistants who pro-jested too much of a mother-image. Replacing them: twenty young men, aged 18 to 20, plucked straight out of High School, and lavishly paid while in training.

"They talk the same language," explained Marshall Field's merchandising manager, Frank Heep.

Vanished, too, the experienced buyer with firm ideas on sensible shoes for growing feet.

Replacing him, a 27-year-old Adonis who looks like a movie-star, is charmingly attentive to the girls when they come in, and even takes the trouble to go all the way along to the High Schools to find out what they have in mind for autumn.

Fashion shows for schoolgirls

RESULT: shoe sales have already moved up to a gratifying skyhigh, and the store, which is still feeling its way and experimenting with this doubtful market, has reason for quiet satisfaction.

Such efforts are not confined to the shoe department. The store also stages Saturday morning fashion shows for High School girls, where the models are their trained contemporaries, free loes and coke are handed out, and the clothes are hand-picked for them.

Study the 'new' hairdressers...

THESE sales methods will perhaps strike conservative English storekeepers as frighteningly American. But the principle seems sound to me. Nothing could be more calculated to drive the average English teenager straight into the arms of the comfortable, club-like coziness of the "weirdie" world, than being patronised, despised or talked down to by the dignified stores she ventures into occasionally.

If you doubt me, study the hairdressers. Today's average, successful hairdresser is a dashing young man of 25 who drives a fast car, collects jazz records, saw Fings Ain't Wot They Used

T'be the first week of its run, and staffs his shop with pleasant young men and charming girls. And if there is a country in the world where the young girls have better-dressed, more beautifully kept and prettier-looking heads of hair than ours, I have yet to hear about it.

IT IS THE BEST show-news I have heard in years. As from now, shoe designers are showing up shoes with a high pile vamp, instead of cutting them away to the toes and almost down to the soles. Along with the trolleys, I have always preferred the high, orthopedic vamp that makes a woman's feet look narrower.

Right to left: Saxena's shopily pump with a fine high heel, made of clay open black nylon-mesh, on sale at 69s. 11d. Centre: Royce's perfectly classic pump, high-heeled, made of black crepe, on sale now. Left: plain shape, exotic fabric for a brocade silk pump printed in gold, pinks, red and white.

MISCELLANEOUS VIEWS ON

by W. Bauer, M. D.

THIS 'N' THAT

CHILDREN now love luxury, have bad manners, contempt for authority, show disrespect for their elders, and love chatter in place of exercise. Children are now tyrants, not the servants of their households. They no longer rise when their elders enter the room. They contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble up their dainties at table, cross their legs and tyrannise over their teachers."—Socrates, 467-400 B. C.

PRESSURE

EXPECTING too much of a child may serve to implant in him a fear of failure. Ordinary competition is all right, but it must not be overdone, warns the Kansas State Board of Health. A child will do his best in an atmosphere of love, encouragement, trust and approval, and if he is treated with dignity and respect. He should earn the praise he wants, but should not be discouraged by trying to accomplish more than he is able.

SELF-SUFFICIENCY

THE social necessity which gave rise to health education is that health and sickness have become more dependent on what the individual does for himself than on what can be done for him. That this should have happened at the time of greatest technical advance in medicine is one of those paradoxes which constantly renew our interest and zest in life." (John Burton, M. D.)

TEETH

HOPPED-UP claims for dentifrice preparations are nothing new, according to The Journal of the American Dental Association. Since the days of ancient Greece and Rome, purveyors of preparations alleged to be useful in preventing dental caries have been using the same time-changing words to meet changing conditions. "When," asks the JADA, "are they going to change the tune, and recognise that a dentifrice, like other detergents, is an aid to the toothbrush only as a cleansing — not a therapeutic — agent?"

FENCING

THE art, or is it sport, of fencing is advocated by a New York surgeon, himself a skillful fencer, as "an excellent sport for the young and also for the not-so-young... There are all the elements of good exercise and competitive sport, and, at the same time, it is the most 'undangerous' of sports. The initial cost for fencing equipment is... no more than $20. The fencing strip is only 40 by 6 feet, beyond this you need only another fencer."

RELIEF

A button on the pop-up, electric num, and to the amusement of the audience as well as his own, the stage on which he would slowly out of sight. This is called as a suggestion for the mental health of audiences subjected to long-winded speakers, and perhaps even the safety of the speaker.

FASHION

THE New England Journal of Medicine suggests that "at a time when imponderable calamities cut the horizon, occasional deviations of behavior are almost required to 'cover' one's mind back to sanity." Perhaps this very purpose has been served for centuries by the fashion designers. They have put people's feet into shoes so pointed that every principle of good shoe fitting is violated, and made women's heels so high that they are almost impossible to walk on. Then, having rendered people unable to walk, they have conspired with motor car designers to make the cars so long that one cannot park when he gets where he is going. "Sartorial sadism" is blamed for the "un-reachable and unnecessary button that has appeared in the backs of the collars of men's shirts." (The good medical editor must have had a new shirt more recently than I — as yet I haven't encountered that annoyance, though I might as well express my displeasure at the top of my head.) And if anybody wonders what all this has to do with health, consider how much less damaging to the blood pressure, to be annoyed by buttons, and bogged

MRS. Darwin Nichols and Hughes Mendel of Monroe, La., came close to winning the mixed pair championship at the Jackson Nationals. Mrs. Nichols has only been playing tournament bridge for 15 months but if this hand is an example of her animal play she will be one of our great players in a little while.

She won the opening heart in dummy and naturally led a trump. East rose with the ace and made the mistake of not cashing his ace of diamonds. Instead, he returned a heart whereupon Mrs. Nichols developed a squeeze for the rest of the tricks.

The key play came immediately. She won the heart and promptly ruffed a third heart. This left West with the only high heart so that when Mrs. Nichols ran out all her spades West was in a hopeless trap. He had to hang on to a heart. Mrs. Nichols discarded both diamonds and a low club from dummy and finally after the four of hearts had done its work of squeezing West she led that go also and wound up with four club tricks.

Of course, there are better and more complicated squeezes but the proof of the pudding is in the eating, and Mrs. Nichols played for and made the maximum.

The Book Boulevard

—It's Full Of Wonderful And Interesting Things—

By MAX TRELL

NOW IF you could make yourself as small as Knarf and Handid could—for they were the Shadow-of-Children instead of being real every-day-in-the-week Children—you would be able to squeeze yourself behind the bookcase in their room and take a walk down Book Boulevard, which they often did.

Wonderful things

There were wonderful things to see along Book Boulevard. Behind the bookcase the backs of the books looked exactly like houses. And in those book-houses lived People whom you know, and have (I'm sure) read about—People like Simple Simon, Mother Goose, Alice—who called her house Wonderland—Jack and Jill, Christopher Columbus, George Washington, and many others.

Often, as they walked along Book Boulevard, Knarf and Handid would see these friends and neighbours sitting by the windows or working in their gardens or just leaning over their front gates. They would smile and wave to Knarf and Handid as they passed.

Greeted Jack

"Good morning Jack," Handid would say to a Boy sitting on the front steps of his house, licking something off his thumb. "Have you stuck your thumb in a plum again?"

Then Handid would say to a little Girl who was putting shells along the edge of her mother's garden: "Good morning, Mary! Oh my, oh my, you're putting that shell down upside-down! You shouldn't be so contrary, Mary!"

Old lady

Very often Knarf and Handid would meet an old Lady with a smiling old wrinkled face walking her Dog along Book Boulevard.

"Good morning, a very good morning!" the old Lady would stop and say. And the Dog would stand up on his hind legs and wag his tail.

"Good morning, Mrs. Hubbard!" Knarf and Handid would answer, smiling back at her. Then they would pat the Dog on the head and say:

Met Snow-white

One morning they met a lovely Girl walking on the sunny side of the street with seven little Men. So Knarf and Handid said good morning, and Snow-white nodded and the Seven Dwarfs tipped their hats.

Down at the very end of Book Boulevard was the Animal Book House. That was the most interesting place of all. The Animal Book House was like a zoo except for several very important things.

There were no cages. There were no keepers in charge of the Animals. The Animals never hurt anybody.

It wasn't at all unusual to see the Lion walking slowly up and down on the grass in front of the Animal Book House with his paws behind his back and the tip of his tail over his shoulder, smoking a curved pipe.

Jumping rope

And no one was the least bit surprised to see a crowd of Monkeys turning a rope while Miss Kangaroo jumped gracefully up and down!

In the big back yard behind the Animal Book House the Zebras, the Buffaloes and the Antelopes would run a race while the Alligator and the Hippopotamus would watch from a mud puddle.

Wants a bath

"How about me? Can't you fellows move over and make room for me?" The Elephant would say to the Alligator and the Hippopotamus. "I'd like to take a bath, too!"

Knarf patted Mrs. Hubbard's Dog, Tray, on the head.

The most amusing—and the biggest one in the whole Animal Book House—was the Whale. Knarf and Handid would find him sitting in his bathtub reading a book.

"Everybody thinks I'm a Fish," he would say.

"Aren't you?" Handid would exclaim.

"You look like a Fish," said Knarf, "and you swim like a Fish, and you live in the ocean!"

Shook his head

The Whale kept shaking his head—and the whole house shook with it!

"I'm an Animal," he said. "I'm an Animal who lives in the water. You don't have to be a Fish just because you happen to like the water."

"Frogs aren't Fish. Seals aren't Fish. People like the water and they aren't Fish!" And he roared with laughter.

How wonderfully lucky you were if you could walk along Book Boulevard.

But, of course you could always find the folks who lived there by just looking for them in their books!

YOUR BIRTHDAY: If this is your birthday you can look forward to a year of steady progress and an excellent opportunity to consolidate your position.

Middlesex keep up challenge

Alan Moss bowls Glamorgan into 5-wicket defeat

London, June 16.

Alan Moss, the Middlesex fast bowler, was a driving force behind his county's victory over Glamorgan by five wickets at Neath today.

Moss reduced the Glamorgan second innings to a rout, taking eight wickets for 37 runs—the best performance of his career—and returning a match analysis of 13 for 51.

Middlesex in turn suffered setbacks when they went in to knock off the required 84 runs in their second innings. They lost five wickets doing it, but Eric Russell saved them, batting throughout for 43 and scoring the winning run.

Yorkshire declare

Nottinghamshire with five wickets left, need 89 to avoid an innings defeat against Yorkshire at Worksop. Yorkshire declared 210 ahead with 367 for seven, Brian Close getting 96 and skipper Vic Wilson carrying his bat for 84. Cyril Poole, undefeated for 58 so far in Nottinghamshire's second innings, saved another disaster.

Victory seems assured for Lancashire at Chesterfield. Set 303 to win, Derbyshire lost three wickets for 44 on a pitch taking spin. David White, the Hampshire fast bowler, has not taken fewer than five wickets in a championship match this season. He maintained his run with five for 96 at Bournemouth, helping his side gain a 25-run lead over Leicestershire in the first innings.

There was also a tussle for the first innings lead at Birmingham, where Warwickshire wrestled bonus points from Surrey by 11 runs.

Close of play scores in today's cricket matches were:
At Bournemouth: Hampshire 202 and for no wicket, Leicestershire 237 (B. Cronmuck 55).

At Lord's: Cambridge University 166 and 187 for six (M. Willard 56, N. Reddy 65). MCC 299 (J. Davies 74, B. Knight 57, M. Willard six for 66).

At Oxford: Sussex 248 and 66 for one, Oxford University 291 (A. Smith 80).

INTERNATIONAL FISHING TOURNAMENT

Hatters, June 16.
South Africa's Natal Deep Sea Rod and Reel Club held fourth position as the final day of the International Blue Marlin tournament got under way today.

Albert Van Der Riet brought his team close behind the third-place Bahamas Big Game Fishing Club yesterday when he landed a 439½-pound blue marlin. He was fishing from the cruiser Twins II with long gear originated by Japanese commercial tuna fishermen and was deep trolling from the boat.

Puerto Rico's Club Nautico holds a strong first place position with 996 points in the tournament which is sponsored by the Hatters Marlin Club. The United States team is second.—AP.

Mike Souchak takes early lead in U.S. Open Golf

Denver, June 16.

Burly Mike Souchak stomped over the 7,004 sun-baked yards of Cherry Hills Country Club in a 3-under-par 68 today to take an early lead in the first round of the U.S. National Open Golf tournament.

Tommy Bolt, the 1958 winner, threw his driver into the lake and then withdrew.

Bolt drove into the water at the 12th hole and twice at the 10th. There he sent his driver into the lake after the ball.

When he reached the desk near the final green he at first refused to sign his card, then did so although the score for the 18th was blank. He was credited with a 35-45-80.

Tough course

British Open champion Gary Player of South Africa also had trouble coming in and finished at 70 after going out in 33. Sam Snead, still after his first Open crown, had a 72.

Player said later: "I felt I played very well today and putted well despite the fact that several comparatively short birdie putts failed to go down. With a few breaks I could have had a real fine score."

He admitted the course was playing tougher than he had originally figured but still said it wasn't as stiff a test of golf as previous Open courses he's played.

"The greens are getting harder every day," he explained. "So even though the course plays short you can't be careless. The approaches can be hard to stick and the putting very tricky."

Only bogey

Player birdied on the sixth hole with a 20-foot putt and on the seventh with a 4-footer to go two under at the turn. Those were his only birdies.

He just barely missed birdies on four other holes as those putts missed by inches—a 4-footer on No. 5, a 6-footer on

No. 11, a 4-footer on No. 13 and a 5-footer on No. 14.

Player's only bogey came on No. 14 when he drove into the rough and took two more shots to reach green. This is one of the toughest holes on the course and Gary felt he hit his first four shots real well.

George Blumberg, a Johannesburg businessman who is following Gary in the tournament, called today's round "one of the safest rounds I've ever seen Gary play. He was never even close to being in trouble and had his putts being dropping there's no telling what his score would have been."—AP.

Peter Thomson equals course record

Leeds, June 16.

Peter Thomson of Australia, four-time winner of the British Open Golf Championship, equalled the course record of 60 over the Moortown course today and moved into the lead of the Leeds Professional Tournament.

Thomson led the qualifiers for the final 36 holes with a score of 70-66-136.

Bernard Hunt of England with 69-70-139 and Angel Miguel of Spain with 69-70-139 shared second place.

Other qualifiers included: S. Sewgulum, South Africa, 75-68-143; K. H. Redford, South Africa, 70-74-144; Luis Ruiz, Argentina, 73-73-146.—AP.

She may be another Radford

By PETER MOSS

What Radford is doing for British men's sprinting prestige, Jenny Smart could do for British girls.

At Chiswick recently she beat the best in the Southern Counties, to win the sprint double in 10.7 secs and 24.5 secs—and she is just 17.

The Olympic selectors have hurriedly invited Jenny, unknown a few weeks ago, to join their relay squad.

A Surbiton student, Jenny has looks and poise to go with her track talent. Her voice is husky, and her 5ft. 7in. is strengthened by a winter of cross-country running and weight training.

She is developing, too, the necessary dedicated approach, and at home she gets every encouragement.

Since last season she has improved 4yd. in the fulling. In the 100 she needs to find only another yard to prove herself as fast as any girl Britain has produced.

Dick Richardson to fight Brian London

London, June 16.

Wales' Dick Richardson, European heavyweight boxing champion, will fight a title bout with former British champion Brian London on August 31 at Forthcawl, Wales. It was announced today.

The contract will be signed tomorrow. Richardson captured the European title on May 1 last year when he defeated West Germany's Hans Kalbfell.—AFP.

SOUTH AFRICANS IN WINNING POSITION

SOMERSET FIGHTING AGAINST INNINGS DEFEAT

Taunton, June 16.

Athol McKinnon, burly left-arm spinner, bowled the South African cricketers into a winning position against Somerset on the second day of their match here today.

At the close, Somerset needed 148 runs with six second innings wickets remaining to avoid an innings defeat.

They were then 94, for four having been all out for 122 in reply to the South Africans' first innings total of 385.

McKinnon was mainly responsible for Somerset following on 243 runs behind when he took six wickets for 50.

He was well supported by off-spinner Hugh Tayfield who finished with three for 34, but observed better figures. Tayfield had three catches dropped off his bowling.

Worst exhibition

Somerset battled without inspiration on a pitch which provided a little help for the spinners. Only towards the end in their second innings did they show any kind of resistance and then Bill Alley hit 41 not out after four wickets had gone for 40.

Somerset have rarely been considered as one of the strongest counties and their first innings today was the worst exhibition so far of any of the counties against the touring team.

The South Africans took 80 minutes to break the opening stand of 44 by Atkinson and Virgin in the first innings this morning but when this was accomplished McKinnon and Tayfield carried all before them.

McKinnon delivered slowly through the air but turned the ball naturally from leg. After his six first innings wickets he captured three of the four in the second innings to have overall figures of nine for 76 at the close.

Some resistance

He broke the opening stand in both innings, on the first occasion taking the first three wickets in the course of 10 balls for two runs.

Alley showed some resistance with 28, but once he had gone the last four wickets fell for 18 runs. Again it was Alley who defied the South Africans in the second innings. In an exhilarating knock he hit two sixes, a five and four fours.

Four Asians to play in Inter-Varsity cricket match

London, June 16.

Four Asian cricketers, including Abbas Ali Baig, the Indian Test player, and the 19-year-old Nawab of Pataudi, have been chosen to play for Oxford University in the annual match against their great rivals, Cambridge University, at Lord's on July 6, 7 and 8.

For Baig, who got his Blue in 1959, and who is up at University College, it will not be a new experience but for the Nawab of Pataudi, who is studying at Balliol College, it will be his first encounter with the "old enemy" although his father probably enlightened him on the niceties of the battle, having played against the Light Blues in 1929, 1930 and 1931.

The other two Asian members of the Dark Blues team are the Pakistani Javed Burki, formerly of Punjab University, now up at Keble College and the Cinghalese Dan Pichand, late of St Thomas College Colombo, now furthering his studies at Christ Church College.—AFP.

French horses win Ascot Gold Cup, Edward VII Stakes

Ascot Heath, June 16.

Sheshoon, formerly owned by the late Aly Khan, and running in the famed chocolate and green colours of the Aga Khan, ran a wonderful race to win the Ascot Gold Cup, premier prize of the Royal meeting, here today.

Sheshoon, a four-year-old-son of Precipitation, started 7-4 favourite and was splendidly ridden by the Australian jockey George Moore to take the £10,000 first prize.

Shar, starting at 9-2, was shown by the camera to have beaten Le Loup Garou the 9-4 second favourite by a head for second place in the six-horse field.

The victory of Sheshoon gave French-trained horses their eighth win in this event since the war. It also brought an Ascot treble to jockey Moore, who had ridden on each of the previous days.

The French got their second win of the day and the fourth of the meeting when Alraz won the King Edward VII Stakes, over one and a half miles, for Marcel Boussac.

Much to the delight of his many followers, and favourite backers, Lester Piggott rode the smart filly New Move, a daughter of Umberto, to an easy three lengths win in the five-furlong Chesham Stakes for two-year-olds. New Move started at odds of 4-6 and was the fourth first market choice to win during the afternoon.

The "Golden Boy of the Turf" rewarded the many fans now following him blindly when he won the last race of the day, the 1½-mile King George V Handicap, by two lengths on the 7-1 chance Sunny Way, owned by Sir Victor Sassoon.—China Mail Special.

EMERSON, LAVER REACH SEMI-FINALS OF QUEEN'S CLUB TOURNAMENT

Krishnan suffers surprise defeat

London, June 16.

Roy Emerson and Rod Laver today set the stage for a possible all-Australian men's singles final in the London Grass Court Championships at Queen's Club.

Emerson, the Australian No. 3, dashed the hopes of the last remaining American, 19-year-old Chuck McKinley, by winning 6-3, 6-4 and Laver, last year's Wimbledon finalist, pounded out a 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 win over Britain's Billy Knight in a battle of left-handers.

McKinley, who already had impressive wins over America's Ron Holmberg, Abe Segal of South Africa, and Martin Mulligan of Australia, just didn't have the strokes to beat Emerson—seeded sixth at Wimbledon—or to beat the jinx that has plagued American men in this tournament, second only to Wimbledon in the British tennis calendar.

Not since 1949, when Ted Schroeder carried off the £100 trophy, has an American man won the London Tournament.

Did better

The American girls did better. Mimi Arnold and Karen Hantze both won through to the semi-finals with victories over British girls.

Arnold beat bouncy little Dierdre Catt a former British junior champion, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4, and Hantze breezed past Rita Bentley, third-round conqueror of holder Yola Ramirez of Mexico, 7-5, 6-0.

The U.S. girls are in opposite halves of the draw. So the possibility looms on Saturday—if American final on Saturday—if Arnold can repeat her 1958 Wimbledon feat and get past Britain's towering Christine Truman in the semi-final on Friday.

Christine beat Sheila Armstrong of Britain 6-0, 6-4, today.

Hantze's semi-final opponent will be Edda Buding, who used to play under Argentine colours, then went to Germany, and now plays in the south of France.

Edda defeated Mrs Shirley Brasher, British Whigham Cup player, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3.

Surprise

A quarter-final surprise in the men's bracket was the 3-6, 6-1, 6-1 defeat of Ramanathan Krishnan of India, holder of the London title, and seventh seeded at Wimbledon next week, by the tall Spaniard Andre Gimeno.

In the other semi-final on Friday, Emerson will meet Rafael Osuna, the swarthy Mexican, who beat Sergei Tschinik of Italy 6-4, 8-6.

Basilio waited nine years for revenge

By REX LOPEZ

Sugar Ray Robinson stepped from the thudding atmosphere of Stillman's gymnasium into the sultry New York day. Close behind, on that September day in 1948, followed his faithful retinue—trainers, advisers, personal barber, personal golf professional. Awaiting him were worshipping fans, and his helicopter Cadillac.

From a streetcar broué another boxer, small in stature and small—then—in importance. But he was a fellow tradesman and up went his hand in greeting. "Hiya, Champ."

The champ replied with neither a "Hiya" nor so much as a flicker of recognition. The words and gesture froze on the little man who had wanted only to be friendly.

Never again did he wish to be friendly with Sugar Ray Robinson. And the little guy, name of Carmen Basilio, swore that one day he would teach the high and mighty Mr. Robinson a lesson.

At that time, Basilio was in the same welterweight division as Robinson. As far as class was concerned, he was many divisions removed.

He still is. But Carmen Basilio is not one to let a little thing like that stand in the way of fighting honours and cash.

Sufferings He cuts easily. But what's a pint of blood or two, even your own, when titles are at stake?

Such is the boxing philosophy of this rough-hewn character with a crazy ledge for a brow, a light slit for a mouth and a collection of knotted muscles for a body.

For whatever happens to him in the ring could not be worse than the things he suffered before he took up boxing.

With his brothers and sisters, Carmen Basilio used to grub for a living on the family union farm in Canastota, New York State. On their knees they scratched a living from the soil with knives and their bare hands.

Still ingrained in his hands are the scars to remind Basilio of those days. Engraved on his mind is the memory of the tourists gazing at him and his family as if they were monkeys in the zoo.

In the ring, Basilio revealed his outlook on life when defending his welterweight title against Tony DeMarco.

Basilio was getting the worst of one session, taking a hammering about the face while his legs wobbled in uncertain support.

Why didn't he go down for a rest? "I wouldn't give him the satisfaction," he snapped.

Regained title Having won the welterweight crown from DeMarco in June 1955, Basilio successfully defended it in the return the following November.

A setback occurred four months later when for all his toughness he could not outpoint slick Johnny Saxton. But the return fight in September 1956 saw him regain the title and a third meeting with Saxton five months later, ending with a second round knockout, confirmed Basilio's superiority in the 110 lb. division.

So he turned his attentions to fighting bigger boys—like Sugar Ray.

The much-publicized hate Basilio felt for Robinson boosted the takings for the fight on September 23, 1957, to a million dollars, the biggest ever for a non-heavyweight title fight.

Was it all ballyhoo? Ask Archie Whitfield, the tough hired help who was closest to Basilio in those pre-fight hate sessions they called sparring.

Archie is a Negro. Did Basilio think, for one fleeting moment, that he had Robinson in his sights when he snarled loose from a clinch, thrummed Whitfield in the kidneys, threw him across the ring and followed with a hook that shattered his jaw?

Another score But before Basilio and Robinson climbed into the ring Basilio had another score to settle.

Robinson, even tougher in business than in boxing, had wrung himself an incredible deal of a 255,000 dollars ($21,000) guarantee from television rights plus 45 per cent of gate, radio and film takings.

The only way to satisfy this demand was to lower Basilio's cut to 20 per cent.

"Robinson is arrogant and I despise him," hissed the little man when they told him.

And Robinson? Engrossed in commerce, he could not spare the time to think much about his challenger. Sometimes he even cut training to attend to business interests.

But he did let it be known that he would put himself in fighting mood when he entered the ring by telling himself, "Oh, yes, you're Basilio, my opponent."

Basilio did not need to tell himself anything when he entered the ring. His look spoke for itself: "I'm alive at the end of the fight, then I'll be the winner."

The clang of the opening bell still echoed around New York's Yankee Stadium as Basilio tore in with a barrage of rib-smashers that gave Robinson the most anxious first round of his career.

Gashed But the initiative passed to Robinson when, in the fourth round, his immaculate counter-punching gashed Basilio's left eye.

The pure boxing in the fight could have graced an exhibition bout. Some of the other tactics would have made a street brawler wince.

Both fighters were still on their feet at the end of the 15th round after 45 minutes of hand-to-hand combat, the cruelest punishment the ring has seen—and absorbing it.

The final gong went. And for six minutes, the 40,000 spectators and the millions of the television and radio audiences waited on a razor's edge while the two judges and referee Al Bert considered their verdict.

John Addie, the master of ceremonies, hoisted his tubby frame into the ring.

"Judge Artie Aldala scores it nine rounds to Basilio, five to Robinson and one even. Referee Al Bert scores it nine, six to Robinson."

Addie took a breath that seemed to last an eternity.

"Judge Bill Recht scores it eight six, one—to Basilio."

Bitter row We thought we had seen everything in that fight. Even Basilio reckoned that the return (inevitable with a change of champions) "couldn't be rougher than that."

He was wrong. There followed six months of uneasy truce while the two great fighting forces prepared for the return fight.

It was marked by a bitter row when Robinson's camp alleged that Basilio had used a chloroform preparation which had affected Robinson's sight in the first fight—although how Basilio was supposed to have escaped the same effects, they did not say.

"Nonsense," snorted Basilio. "If Robinson hadn't butted me, I wouldn't have had to use that ointment anyway."

What would he do if Robinson butted him again? "Butt him right back."

In the event, Basilio made sure by getting in his butt first.

A SPECIAL CHINA MAIL FEATURE

The return fight took place in Chicago, where they know a thing or two about living by violence. But the town, which knew Al Capone, Dillinger and machine-gun Kelly still had quite a lot to learn about licensed violence from Sugar Ray Robinson and Carmen Basilio.

Before the first round was through they exchanged rabbit punches, low punches, kidney punches, got through enough holding and armlocking for a wrestling match—and swapped an occasional legal blow.

As far as the spectators were concerned, the bell signalled the end of the round. But not for Robinson and Basilio. They had to be dragged apart by their seconds.

In the fourth round Robinson grazed Basilio's left eye. By the sixth the eye was a well of blood held back by a purple wall of flesh.

One-eyed Basilio battled on, scoring defence and standing square up to Robinson so that he could see him. With five rounds to go he was on level terms.

But punching as quickly, as accurately and as mercilessly as at the beginning of the fight Robinson continued to beat a ruthless tattoo on Basilio's left eye. Finally the dam broke and his face became a river of blood.

Almost unconscious Still Basilio carried the fight to his opponent and smashed away at Robinson's body. But fighting with one eye is too much of a handicap even when your heart is as big as Basilio's.

Robinson got the verdict on a 2-1 vote this time. The conquering hero was half-dragged, half-carried to the dressing room—almost unconscious.

A victory party? Only relatives and a doctor were allowed in.

HENNING IS BEST LONG ODDS CHOICE FOR BRITISH GOLF OPEN

By ARCHIE QUICK

The imminence of the Canada Cup Tournament at Portmarnock, Dublin, provided the "Daks" Tournament at Wentworth, Surrey, with added attractions and greater importance by raising it to a rehearsal for the golfers of 13 nations for the sterner contest ahead.

Among the two favoured entrants were the two Australians who won the Canada Cup in Melbourne a year ago, Peter Thomson and Ken Nagle, but the most intriguing competitor was South Africa's Bobby Locke—a "New Look" Bobby Locke.

He told me that he felt fully recovered after a fortnight's practice at Wentworth, and his American wife told me that "Bobby is looking forward to challenging for the Canada Cup in partnership with Open Champion Gary Player." After the Wentworth show he is to play at Leeds and Sunningdale before crossing to Ireland.

It only remains to be said that Locke's first round of the season in England on Wentworth's "Burma Road" was an unhappy seventy-seven.

A fantastic prize of £4,000 has been offered by the sponsors of the Sprite International tournament at Selsdon Park, Surrey, next month to any competitor who succeeds in achieving a hole in one. That is twice the size of all the rest of the prize money!

Improved player At Wentworth, too, there was a surprise special prize of £250 for any player who completed the first or second nine holes in thirty strokes or under. To the astonishment of the immaculate Spaniard Angel Miguel, he was handed the £2,000 pot after reaching the turn in 29. He finished the round with a five at the eighteenth but still had a record score of 63 to lead the field on the first day by two strokes.

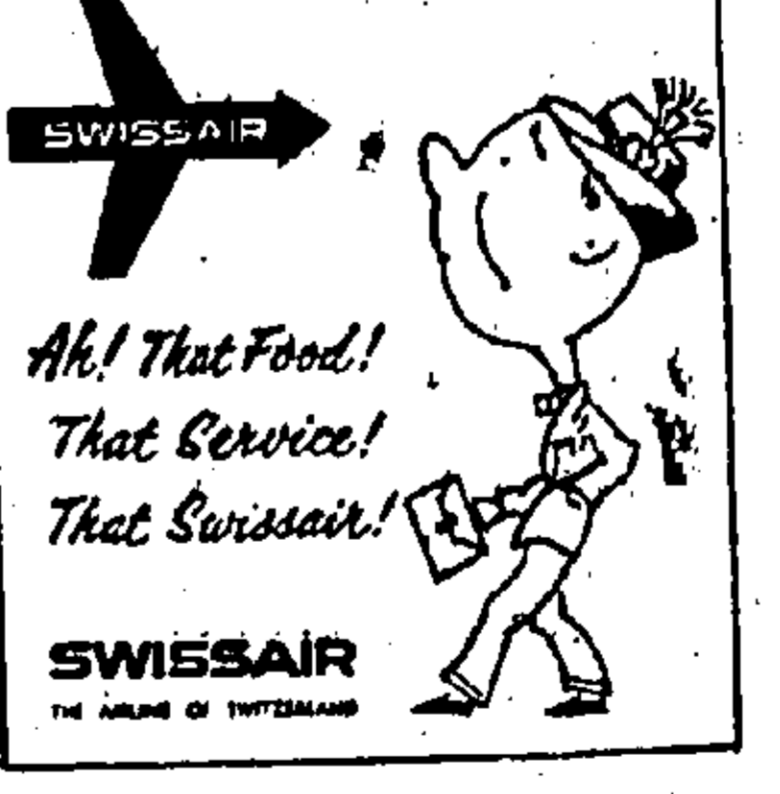

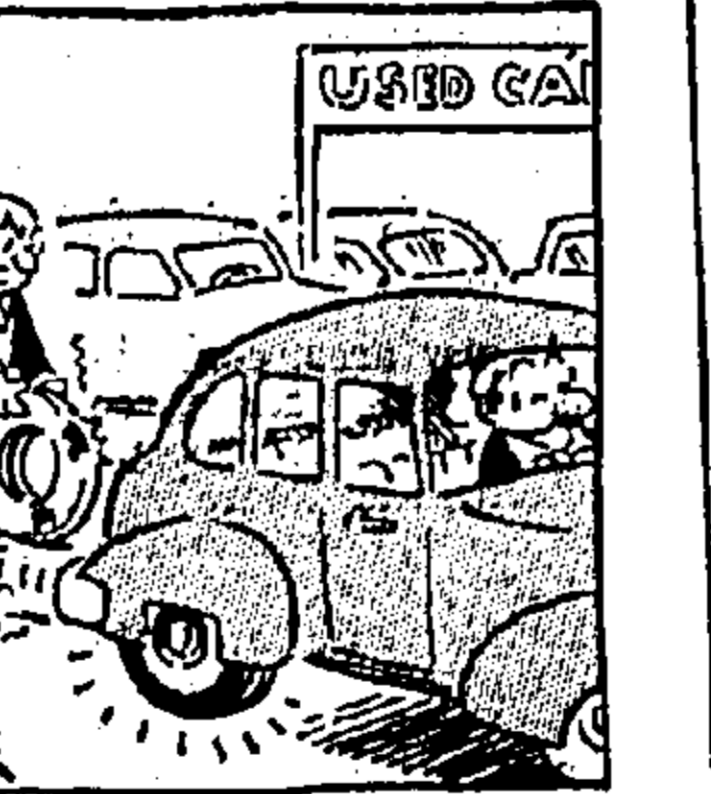

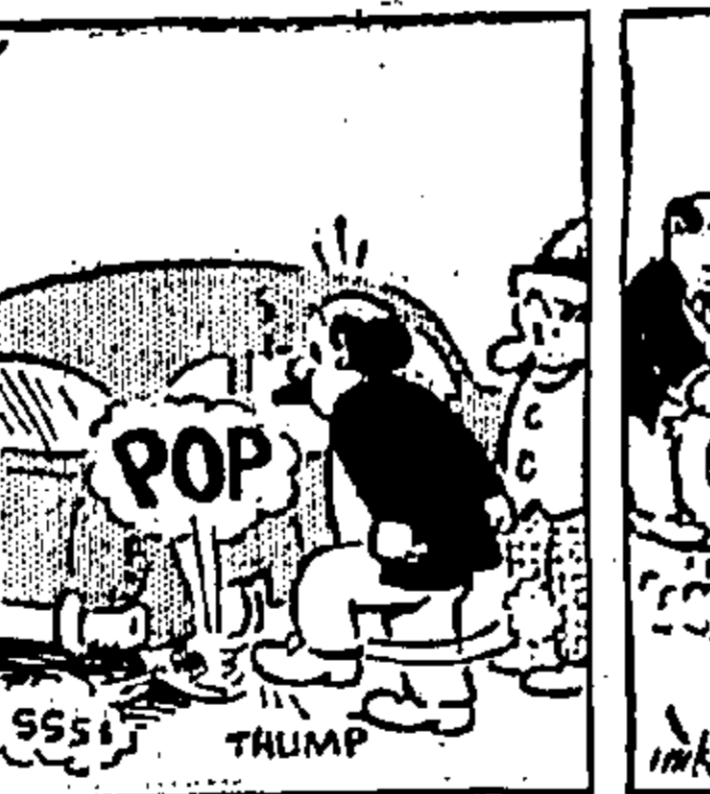

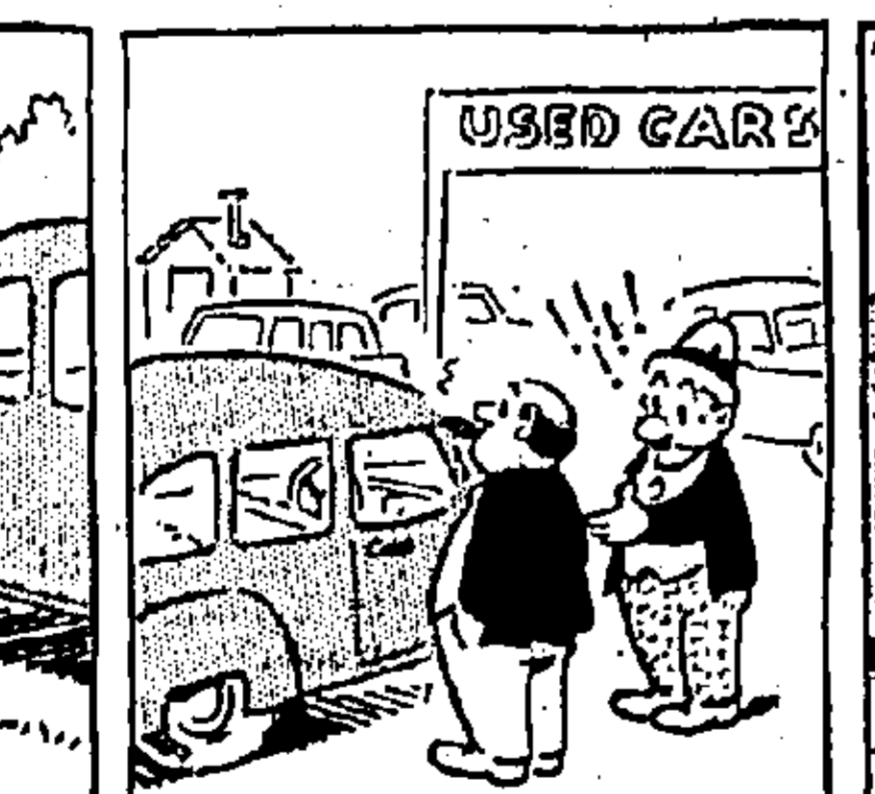

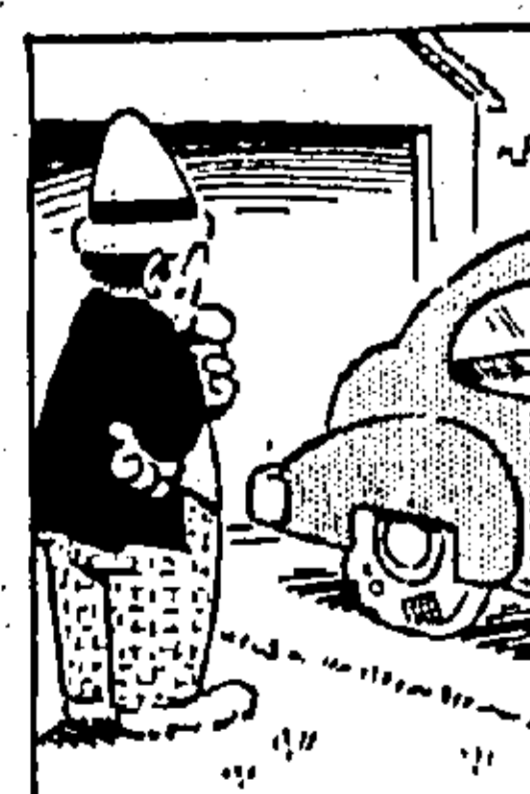

Watching the play I came to the conclusion, however, that the best long odds bet for the "Open" is Harold Henning, the quiet but competent South African. He did a smooth 65, and Locke told me afterwards that he considers his countryman has a real chance of winning the Big Prize. "He is a fifty per cent better player than he was a year ago," said Bobby.

Reservoirs gain from rain

Hongkong's reservoirs gained almost 500 million gallons as a result of yesterday's rain and supply now stands at 8,522 million gallons.

Total capacity is 10,500 million gallons.

Three reservoirs are overflowing — Aberdeen, Pokfulam and Wongneichong.

Hill streams are expected to continue feeding water into the Colony's reservoir system over the next few days.

LOANS TO TYPHOON VICTIMS

The Fish Marketing Organisation has issued $7,600 in loans to needy fishermen since noon yesterday to help them replace their boats destroyed and gear lost in the recent typhoon.

This brings to $106,010 the amount given from the FMO's $500,000 Loan Fund, the Commissioner for Co-operative Development, Mr J. Cater, said today.

In addition, the Vegetable Marketing Organisation has paid $68,290 of the J. E. Joseph Trust Fund, to farmers since Tuesday.

The FMO continued to distribute relief articles to fishermen affected by Typhoon Mary last week.

At Cheung Chau yesterday, 218 tins of pork donated by the Menonite Central Committee and 2,872 pounds of rice from the Church World Service, were distributed and at Tai Po another quantity of 3,000 lbs of rice also from the Church World Service was given to distressed fishermen.

Widening of Brewin Path

About 527 feet of Brewin Path from Magazine Gap Road to I.L. 6877 will be widened in conjunction with new residential development.

The existing roadway will be widened from eight to twelve feet. The new carriageway will have a six-foot wide footpath on one side and a verge, two feet in width, next to the cutting slope of the hill.

CHILDREN HURT IN ACCIDENTS

Three children, ranging from five to 13 years in age, were injured in traffic accidents yesterday. All were admitted to hospital for treatment.

The eldest of the three, a 13-year-old boy, Wong Chup Pui of 70, Stanley Street, third floor, was knocked down by a private car in Bonham Road near the St. Stephen's Girls' School shortly after five o'clock.

Two young girls were knocked down by passing vehicles in Kowloon in the afternoon. One of them, five-year-old Tsui Mei Ling of 64 Kimberley Road, was hit by a taxi near her home while the other, Leung Sor Hung, aged nine years of 27, Bute Street, first floor, was struck by a bicycle in Nathan Road near Mong Kok Road.

17-storey mosaic on side of new hotel

The mosaic on the side of the Ambassador Hotel, Kowloon.—China Mail photo.

A giant mosaic has been put up on the side of a new luxury hotel in Kowloon. Running practically the whole length of the new Ambassador Hotel on the outside facade, it measures 143 feet long by almost 15 feet wide.

Rising from the first to the top (17th) floor, the gigantic mosaic, done in Italian style, depicts Confucius travelling over all the provinces in China.

A local Chinese artist, Miss S. F. Poon, did the original drawing which was enlarged and sent to Messrs Salvo, Italy, for manufacture of the tiles.

The order was placed in December and the tiles were shipped here in packages in April. There are 400,000 pieces which have been put together in an area of 2,121 square feet.

THE COST

The mural has a wide range of colours: green, yellow, red, magenta, violet, white, black, and ochre, all characteristic of Chinese art tradition. The mural, completed last month, faces Nathan Road. It cost $70,000 in all. The Ambassador Hotel is expected to be completed by the end of this year.

$750 fine for driver of scooter

An unlicensed scooter rider who nearly knocked down a boy in North Point yesterday evening, was fined $750 or three months' jail by Mr I. T. Morris at Central Court this morning on three traffic charges.

Ho Ming-shun, 30, of 6 Wharf Road, ground floor, pleaded guilty to driving without a valid licence, third party insurance, and owner's consent.

He was also disqualified from obtaining a driving licence for 12 months.

Sub-Inspector M. Atkinson said a police constable saw defendant driving a scooter in a zig-zag manner in Wharf Road at 9.20 p.m. yesterday.

A boy had to dash back to the pavement from the roadway to avoid being knocked down.

When defendant was stopped and questioned by the constable, he admitted that he had no driving licence and that he had driven the scooter without the permission of its owner.

25 years AGO

June, 1935

A front-page dispatch in the SCM Post said the Repulse Bay Lido is to be opened on July 12 at 6.30 p.m., the ceremony to be performed by Lady Southern.

From the following day the Lido will be opened to the public. The Lido Building which is situated at the eastern end of Repulse Bay, has been designed on the lines of the modern Continental style bathing establishment.

The present Lido is only part of an extensive scheme which will provide Hongkong with a magnificent amusement centre such as may be seen in Europe and America.

The original plan calls for another building of equal size, a large swimming pool, as well as tennis, miniature golf and other sports grounds in the midst of elaborately planned gardens and artistic floral effects.

EXTRACT from the SCM Post's 25 Years Ago column: Residents in Kowloon ought in future to sleep peacefully at night for the prowling tiger has at last been killed. This was the news which reached our office last night.

"It appears that on Saturday afternoon several parties set out for the New Territories with the avowed intention of bringing home the skin of the tiger if there was such an animal anywhere within reach of a gun.

They shot it near Tai Om.

"In its death struggles the animal dug a hole in the ground nearly three feet deep. It was a powerful beast and measured five feet one inch in length without the tail.

"It stood about three feet high. Its skin was of a dark brown hue and it did not resemble a tiger.

"It is thought to belong to the panther species. The two successful shots were fired by Sgt. Devney and Mr Gast.

"They are to be congratulated on their success and they will have the satisfaction of having relieved the minds of the residents in the outlying villages of the New Territory.

CHILDREN GET PLAYGROUND IN RESETTLEMENT AREA

A large public playground, with adequate recreational facilities for children, is to be built near the Tai Hang Tung resettlement estate in Kowloon.

Two plots of vacant ground, about 26,000 square feet in area situated on either side of the nullah to the north of the estate, will be converted for the purpose.

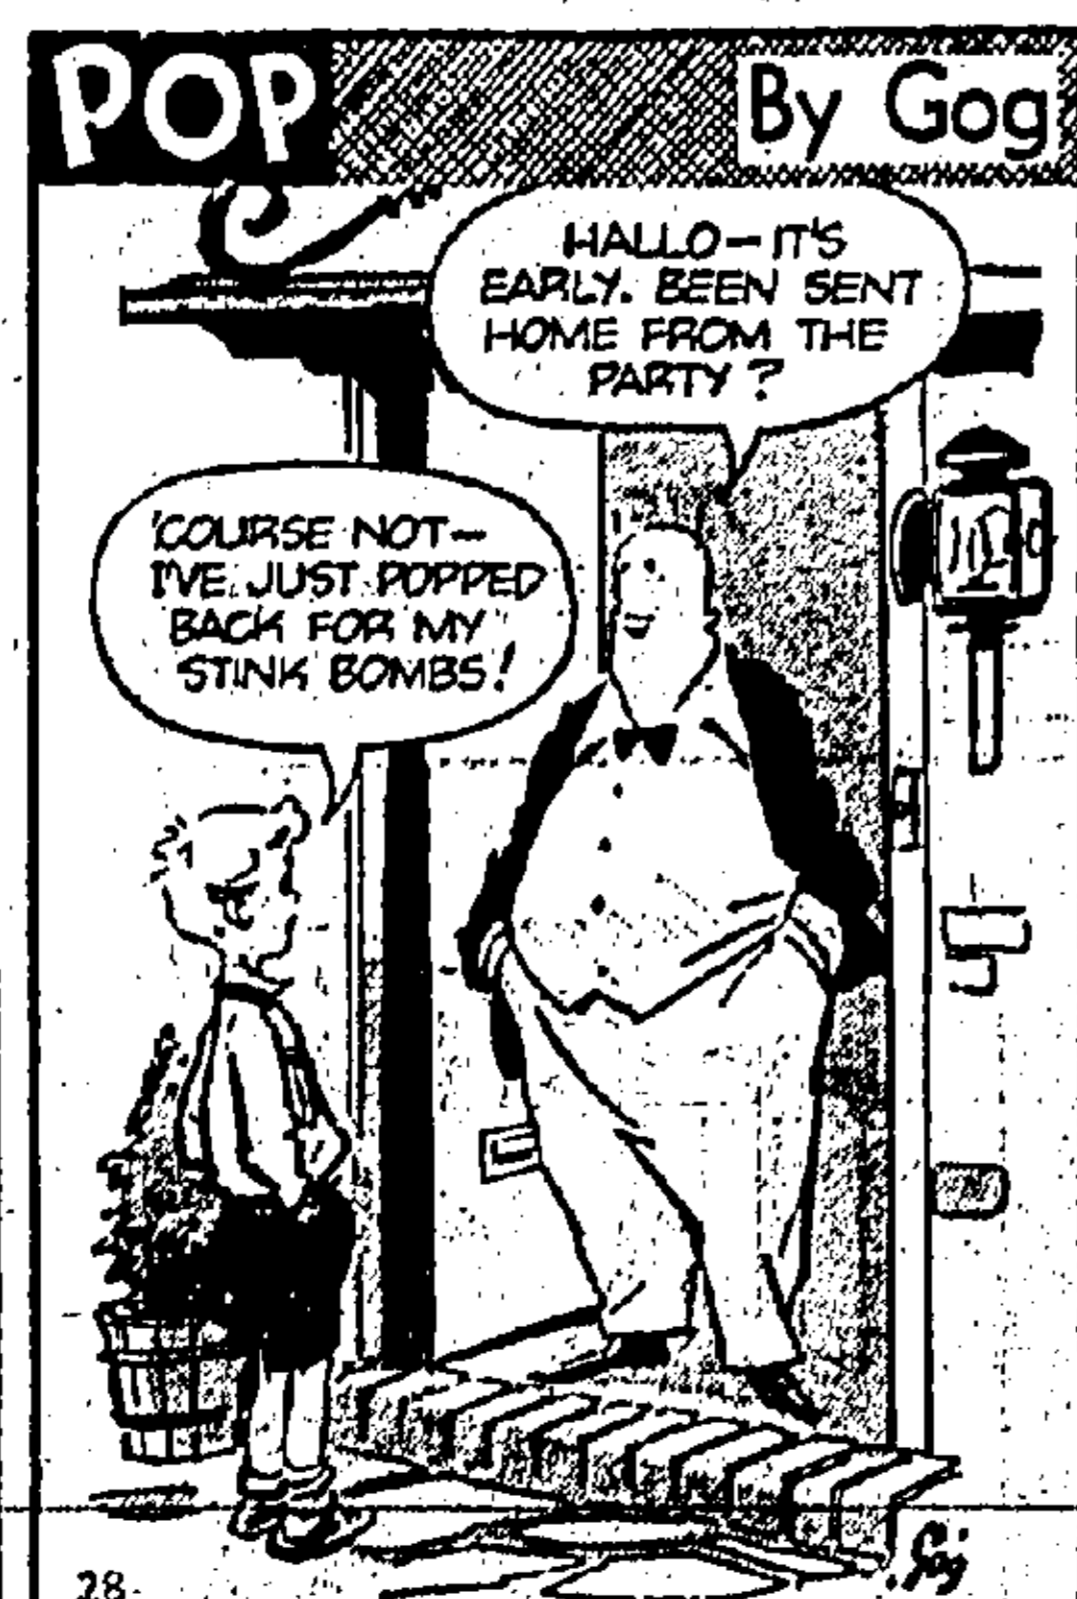

The northern half of the playground will have a basketball court, a volley ball court and a general rest area. A covered shelter will be erected at the northern end.

A children's play area, containing a cabin slide and three pairs of swings, will occupy the southern half. There will be benches and a covered shelter nearby.

Trees and hedges will be planted and flower beds will be provided. Construction work on the playground will begin in August and take three months to complete.

New category vehicles can use parks

The Star Ferry Car Park and the City Hall Car Park are open to dual purpose vehicles and hire cars. Two new categories of public transport recently introduced by regulations. In a notification published in today's Government Gazette, the Commissioner of Police designates the two car parks as those within the meaning of the Road Traffic (Parking and Waiting) Regulations, 1958, and notifies that the use of these car parks is limited to private cars, goods vehicles weighing not more than two tons, dual purpose vehicles and hire cars.
